

ADDRESSING STIGMA AND DISCRIMINATION IN THE UNITED NATIONS WORKPLACE

”

We are fortunate to work in perhaps the most diverse organisation in the world. Our diversity makes us strong.

— United Nations Secretary-General

UN Cares, the UN System-wide workplace programme on HIV launched in 2015 a new initiative called UN for All aimed at addressing stigma and discrimination in the UN workplace.

We have developed four half-day training modules to create awareness about the human rights obligations of UN employees, unconscious biases, respectful language, and the UN policies that exist and must be upheld in order to build a workplace of dignity and inclusion for all.

UN for All facilitators have been trained in every region of the world and they are currently delivering the modules to their peers in numerous duty stations.

MORE INFORMATION AT:
WWW.UNCARES.ORG/UNFORALL

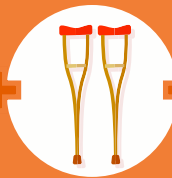

MODULAR WORKSHOPS FOR UN STAFF

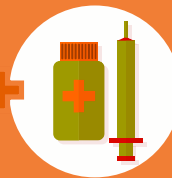

Core Module

LGBTI Module

Disabilities Module

Substance Use Module

Interactive

Face-to-face

Educational

IN 2015
WE TRAINED:

211 learning facilitators

in 93 countries

from 29 UN organizations